Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

“Without cost you have received;
 without cost you are to give.”

— Matthew 10:8b

LABORERS NEEDED

Today’s scriptures employ mixed metaphors—images of sheep and shepherds, priests and people, harvest and laborers—all of which intermingle to create a web of meaning on which we have based our understanding of Christian vocations. Above all, these images help us see Christian vocations as an extension and expression of Jesus’ own ministry in the world. They lend themselves especially well to a reflection on the vocation to ordained priesthood. The scriptures for today help us understand the role of the ordained in the life of the Church. They also encourage us to pray for an increase in the number of candidates for priestly ordination, for “the harvest is abundant but the laborers are few” (Matthew 9:37).

FATHER’S DAY BLESSING

God our Father,
 in your wisdom and love you made all things.
 Bless these men,
 that they may be strengthened as Christian fathers.
 Let the example of their faith and love shine forth.
 Grant that we, their sons and daughters,
 may honor them always
 with a spirit of profound respect.

GOOD KNIGHTS—GOOD SAMARITANS

I am taking this opportunity to congratulate our Knights of Columbus, (Council 6149) on being recognized as California’s most successful Knights organization. You are a special group of Catholic guys who have given great leadership in the social and corporal works of works of mercy. You are bridge builders between our two Catholic communities, St. Joseph’s and St. Teresa’s. Thank you for representing the Catholic Church with quiet dignity. I have enjoyed a special working relationship with this year’s Grand Knight, Mark Capik, with his predecessor, Tim Reuter, and I am looking forward to working with Mark’s successor, Scott Holthaus.

A GOOD SAMRITAN

A king who had no son to succeed him, posted a notice inviting young men to come along and apply for adoption into his family. The two qualifications were love of God and love of neighbor. A poor peasant boy was tempted to apply, but felt unable to do so because of the rags he wore. He worked hard, earned some money, bought some new clothes, and headed off to try his luck at being adopted into the king’s family.

He was half-way there when he came across a poor beggar on the road, who was shivering with the cold. The young lad felt sorry for him and he exchanged clothes with him. There was hardly much point in going any further towards the king’s palace at this stage, now that he was back in his rags again. However, the young man felt that, that having come this far, he might as well finish the journey.

He arrived at the palace, and, despite the jeers and sneers of the courtiers, he was finally admitted into the presence of the king. Imagine his amazement to see that the king was the old beggar-man he had met on the road, and he was actually wearing the good clothes the young man had given him! The king got down from his throne, embraced the young man and said “Welcome, my son!” “Whatever you do to the least of my brethren, you do unto me.”

God Bless,
Fr. Mike

Giggles: The Knight M.C. at the Knights of Columbus annual dinner says to the priest “shall I let the Knights continue to enjoy themselves, or will you speak now?”

The circus elephant died and three men sat sadly outside his wagon. “I know the elephant is a big loss,” said the clown, “but why are you taking it so bad?” The three men answered “we’ve got to dig the grave!”

The racehorse owner was annoyed with the running of his horse in a big race. So he turned on the jockey, “could you not have raced faster?” “Of course I could, boss, but you know we’re supposed to stay on the horses.”
