The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ
June 6, 2010

[A]s often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the death of the Lord until he comes.
— 1 Corinthians 11:26

CHRIST FORETOLD

In Genesis, Melchizedek is described as a king who is also a priest. As this story is usually interpreted, Melchizedek’s action of bringing out bread and wine and blessing it with praise to the Creator is a prophetic action. Seen as a prefigurement of the action of Jesus, he foretells to Abram the One who is to come, the Messiah. The psalm echoes this theme in the time of David the King, who praises and thanks God and proclaims the preexistence of the Christ, who is given princely power from “the day of your birth, in holy splendor” (Psalm 110:3). God has promised this to David and his descendants forever, and God will never go back on this promise.

CORPUS CHRISTI

Paragraph 1324 of the new Catechism of the Catholic Church states "The Eucharist is the source and summit of the Christian life. The other sacraments, and indeed all ecclesiastical ministries and works of the apostolate, are bound up with the Eucharist and oriented towards it, for in the Blessed Eucharist is contained the whole spiritual good of the Church, namely Christ Himself, our Pasch".

As a young person, I attended daily Mass with my father before darkness broke. He would stay in the last seat and I would go closer to the altar rails. I received the Eucharist daily, my father received only during Easter time. My mom reassured me that Pope Pius X and Pope Pius XII wanted us to worthily receive daily. I remember fasting from midnight, then it was for three hours and after Vatican II it was one hour.

In my father's tradition people never felt worthy of frequent Holy Communion. My mother always wanted daily communion. She made my dad buy our home opposite a Church. When our family grew the only stipulation she had when we moved to a bigger home was that she could walk to Church. As a family we did not roll out of bed and go straight to the altar, No..... There was lots of preparation....we were a Eucharistic home and family. The Sacred Heart picture stood over the fireplace and the rosary was prayed in the evening. Before you think I was raised in a monastery or a convent I was not. In our home there was an abundance of good humor and food, there was song and dance, there was always neighbors and relatives visiting. But, Christ was the honored guest.

The doctrine of The Body Of Christ is Christ's Presence in the Eucharist and in His people. On this The Feast of Corpus Christi let us pray and strive to become more what we are "The Body Of Christ."

God Bless, Fr. Mike

Giggles: Girl: "Mom, why do you say you have been shopping when you haven't bought a thing?"
Mom: "For the same reason your father says he's been fishing."

A baby was yelling loudly during Mass. His Mom got up to take him out. The priest said, "Lady, that baby is not bothering me!" She shouted back "Well, you're bothering him!"

Church Signs From England:

- 1. "Down in the mouth? Come in for a faith lift."
- 2. "Adam blamed Eve, Eve blamed the snake, and the snake does not have a leg to stand on."
- 3. "Happy Easter to our Christian friends".
"Happy Passover to our Jewish friends".
"To our Atheist friends GOOD LUCK".

LIFELONG FAITH FORMATION FOLLOWERSHIP

Who wants to be a follower? Who hopes their children will grow up to be followers? Have you seen a bumper sticker that says: "My child was Student Follower of the Month?" In general parlance, follower refers to those who are not too bright ("They follow like sheep") or worse ("I was just following orders"). And yet, I would contend that what we need in these times more than ever are effective followers. Whether we look at failures in financial institutions, the construction industry, or church governance, what we find beyond ineffective and, at times, malevolent leaders are followers who did not effectively challenge them. Within a parish context the challenges of these days and the common call to discipleship require adults to be faithful followers.

The call to follower ship was at the heart of Jesus' invitation to discipleship. "Come, follow me." These were the words Peter and his brother Andrew heard as they were tending their boats and Matthew heard as he was sitting at the tax booth. The rich young man heard those words, too, but he sadly turned away; perhaps he realized sooner than the others did that the call to follower ship was not going to be easy.

One of the clearest articulations of what being a faithful follower meant to Jesus and the disciples is in the Gospel of John, chapters 13 through 17 when Jesus is speaking with and praying for the disciples at their last meal. It is there that Jesus reminds them of the vision that has given meaning to his life and to theirs. He calls attention to the challenges and persecutions that will be theirs as his followers, but encourages them by affirming for them again who and whose they are and by promising to send the Advocate, the Spirit of truth who will guide them as they move from roles of followers to those of leaders.

This shift in the disciples' roles is important; Jesus calls attention to it in his prayer: "I pray not only for them, but also for those who will believe in me through their word, so that they may all be one, as you, Father, are in me and I in you, that they also may believe that you sent me" (John 17:21) Jesus is praying for them as his followers, but also as leaders who will bring others to believe in him. Discipleship is their identity; they expressed that one identity through follower ship and leadership.

And this is true for us as well. Within any parish setting, few are called to leadership roles, but all are called to discipleship through Baptism. And most express that discipleship by being faithful followers. But again, the word "faithful" has to be redefined in the same way as "follower." With adult faith, the focus of one's faithfulness shifts from received teachings, defined identity, and external authority; it shifts toward creating meaning within personally appropriated teaching, self-identity, and internal authority.

To live out of this shift is to understand faithful followers not as followers faithful in the process of being and becoming the Church. These faithful followers neither give their fidelity naively nor their loyalty too easily. Rather, they are steadfast in their commitment to the always challenging, often uncertain, and at times confrontational process of coming to faith in today's Church.

The call to the local parish to participate in the Church's mission of evangelization requires that it be a place where adult faith is fostered and strengthened. This means that the parish serves as the context where adults are welcomed, challenged, and directed in their faith journey. Attending to the practices of hospitality, conversation, and follower ship provides an important point of entry to that work.

The Most Reverend Jaime Soto
Ninth Bishop, Diocese of Sacramento

What does the bishop do on his days off? Why did your favorite priest get reassigned? Do you have a question about the diocese that you always wanted to ask? Then June 25 is your opportunity.
