[K]eep the commandment without stain or reproach until the appearance of our Lord Jesus Christ.

— 1 Timothy 6:14

AT THE END

In the coming weeks, as we draw nearer to the end of the liturgical year, we will often hear references to the end of our lives and the end of time. This week's scriptures are no exception. The reading from Timothy warns us to live "without stain or reproach until the appearance of our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Timothy 6:14), and the psalm says that God "secures justice for the oppressed . . . but the way of the wicked he thwarts" (Psalm 146:7, 9). In the reading from Amos we hear about the "woe" that is in store for the complacent rich, who think nothing of how their self-indulgence oppresses the poor. The Gospel parable about Lazarus and the nameless rich man exemplifies such complacency, as well as the justice that both the wicked and the oppressed will experience beyond the grave.

Fr. Mike's Message

EDWIN BOOTH

One Sunday, in my homily I mentioned Edwin Booth, the nineteenth century Laurence Olivier of the American Stage. He was especially blessed with gifts of the Holy Spirit with regards to patient endurance.

His father was a drunk who drank himself to death. Young Edwin, who loved the theater, helped his family move back East by working as an actor. His first wife died after two years of marriage. Later he remarried. His next wife became insane and he went bankrupt trying to pay medical costs.

Another happening that would embarrass him his whole life long was that his brother John Wilkes Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln, the President of the United States. Despite his embarrassment, Edwin felt compelled to throw himself into his life's calling, his acting.

Years later in Jersey City, there was a tall young man being pushed onto the railroad tracks. The young man fell, and Edwin who happened to be there, ran over and just in the nick of time pulled him off the track. The young man who recognized the famous actor said, "Well, that was a narrow escape, Mr. Booth." From then on Edwin knew that God's spirit was always with him because the young man he saved was Robert Todd Lincoln, President Lincoln's eldest son. This week I am praying for perseverance for all of us to give God's spirit a chance, not to give up.

God Bless,
Fr. Mike

Giggles: A young man working on a construction site kept bragging that he was the strongest and smartest member of the gang. After a while his boasting began to irritate the older workers to the point that one issued him with a challenge.

"It's time to put your money where your mouth is," said the older worker. "I'll bet a week's wages that I can haul something in a wheel barrow over to that outbuilding that you won't be able to wheel back."

"You're on," said the young man, already mentally counting his winnings. So the older guy grabbed a wheelbarrow by the handles and said to the young man, "Okay, Get in"

Why did the man clean shoes for a living? Because he really took a shine to it.
